COLOMBIA | NOVEMBER 2024

PRESENTATION

Republicanas Populares. Centro de conocimientos y acción colectiva, (Centre for Knowledge and Collective Action) presents the National Bulletin 'Vivas Nos Queremos'. ('We want us alive') Our Observatory of Femicides in Colombia is a crucial tool for the formulation of strategies to safeguard women's lives, serving as a source of information for collective action. The rigorous work we have been carrying out since 2017 through our information system has made it possible to make visible the absence of figures updated data and monitoring of femicidal violence in our country.

The consolidation of a State that guarantees the rights of the majority of the population and the strengthening of institutions are essential to eradicate femicidal violence, which is why we want our analysis to contribute to the democratic transition in Colombia, advocating for actions at local, departmental and national levels that eradicate inequalities and create materials that are conducive to women and girls in all their diversity to live in environments free of violence.

We consider it imperative to address femicidal violence from a structural perspective, linking it to militarization, the neoliberal economic system and historical inequalities based on sex, gender, race, ethnicity and age. Our intention is to offer points of view, reflections and analyses that facilitate progress towards freedom, pleasure and autonomy.

Since 2013, we propose the category of analysis "femicidal neoliberal violence", recognizing that in Colombia, it is essential to contextualize violence against women and its relationship with the neoliberal economic model that perpetuates sexual and racial divisions of labor, placing women in precarious economic conditions and in service jobs, and a considerable number of impoverished men, in legal armies, or on the margins of legality as expressed by Jules Falquet, coining the term men in arms, women in services.<sup>1</sup>

We are certain that facts and numbers without an understanding of the context do not constitute a contribution to the protection of women's lives. It is urgent to understand the realities in order to contribute with other perspectives that allow the construction of individual, family, community and social actions, but, above all, state actions to eradicate violence against women, and with these, the fabric of impoverishment, militarization, exclusion and discrimination in which feminicides take place in the country.

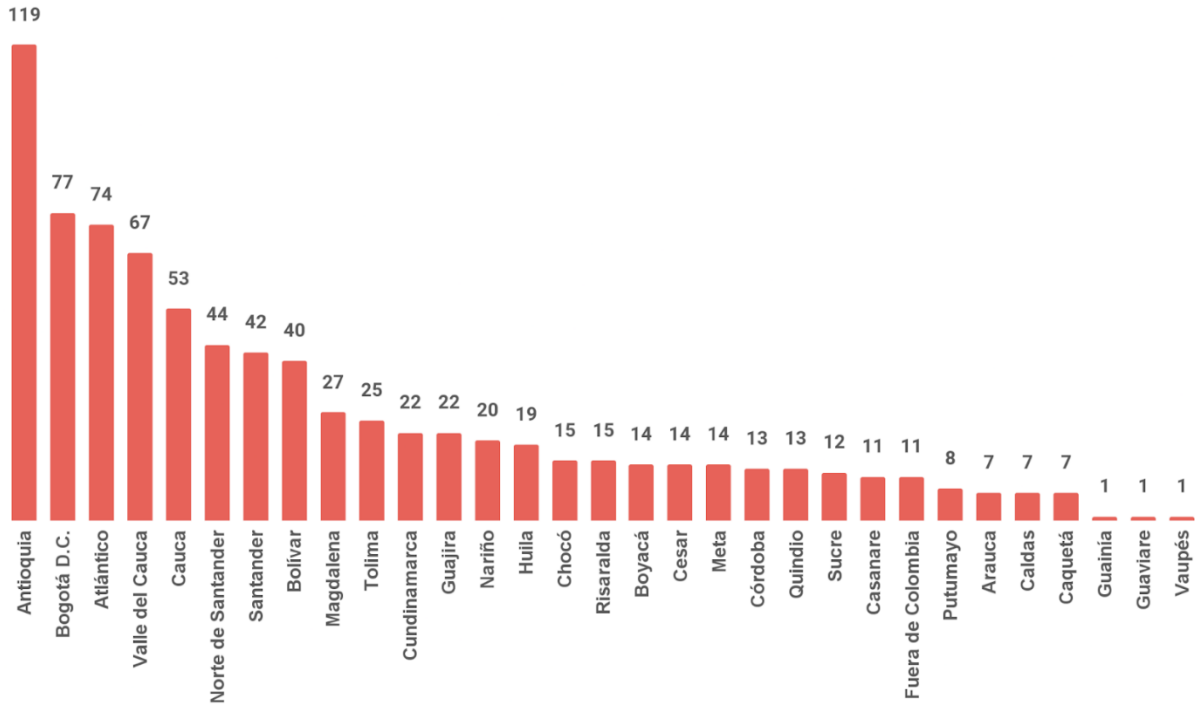

This bulletin presents a detailed follow-up of feminicides and attempted feminicides, using a feminist, materialist, antimilitarist, anticolonial and people's perspective. With more than 40 categories and 150 tags, we classify information since November 2021, using the Power BI platform to analyze statistics and stories that evidence the escalation of femicidal violence.

Feminicides by department November 2024

In November 2024, there were (67) feminicides reported in twenty-three departments of the country, that is, in 72% of the national territory and outside the country there was (1) feminicide of a Colombian migrant woman in Mexico. Of the (68) feminicides registered in the month of November, (8) occurred in Atlántico, (7) in Antioquia, with (5) registrations per department: Cauca and Santander, with (4) registrations per department: Huila and Tolima, with (3) registrations per department: Bogotá D. C, Casanare, Chocó and Norte de Santander, with (2) records per department: Bolívar, Boyacá, Caldas, Caquetá, Córdoba, Magdalena, Meta, Sucre and Valle del Cauca, with (1) record per department: Arauca, Cesar, Guajira and Risaralda.

VIVAS NOS QUEREMOS

Geographical area where the feminicides were committed November 2024

The area where the (68) feminicides occurred during the month of November in Colombia was 65% urban and 34% rural. For 1.5% of the cases, there is no information on the area where the feminicide occurred.

Age of the women who were victims of femicide November 2024

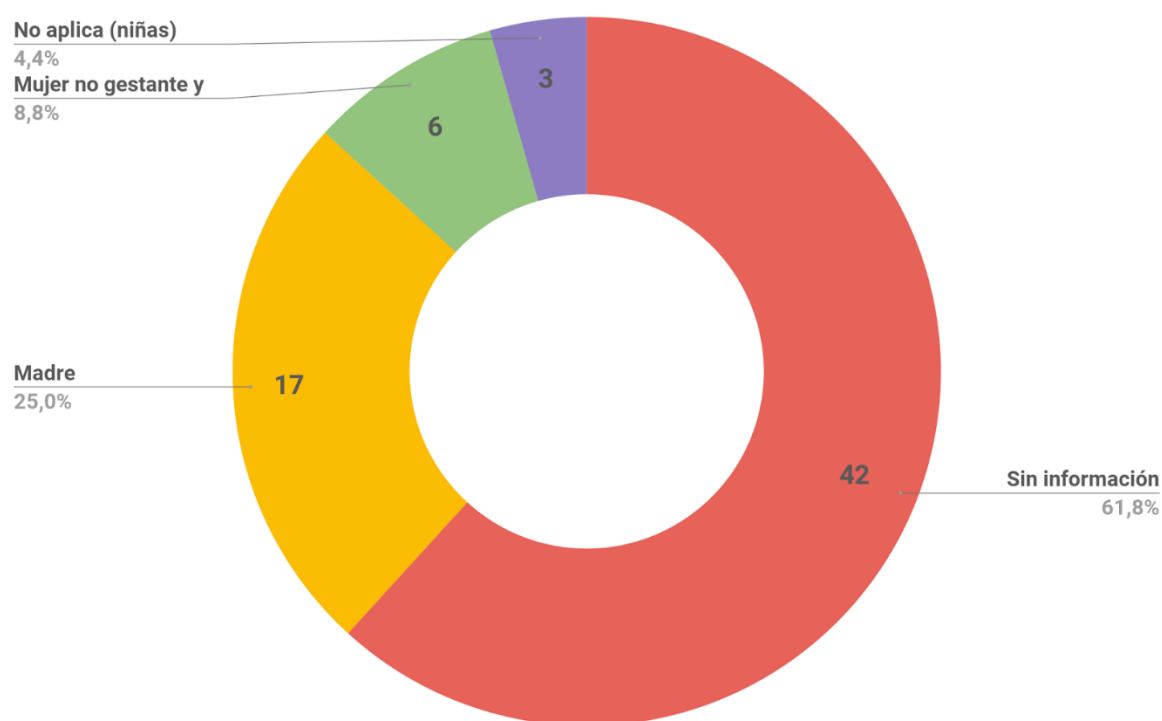

With regard to the age of the (68) women victims of femicide, the highest record, (12) feminicides, occurred in women between 30 to 34 years: with (11) records 25 to 29 years, with (6) records 20 to 24 years, with (4) records 35 to 39 years, with (3) records 60 to 64 years, with (2) records by age range: 05 to 09 years, 10 to 14 years, 18 to 19 years, 40 to 44 years, 45 to 49 years and 55 to 59 years, with (1) record by age range: 15 to 17 years, 50 to 54 years, 65 to 69 years and 75 to 79 years. Of (16) female victims of femicide, the age is unknown.

Feminicides of young women and girls show how the limits of caring for the lives of those who should be at the center of society, politics and the state, are increasingly exceeded by the feminicidal subjects. This month we have (5) records of young women under 18 years of age.

Mothers and pregnant women who were victims of femicide November 2024

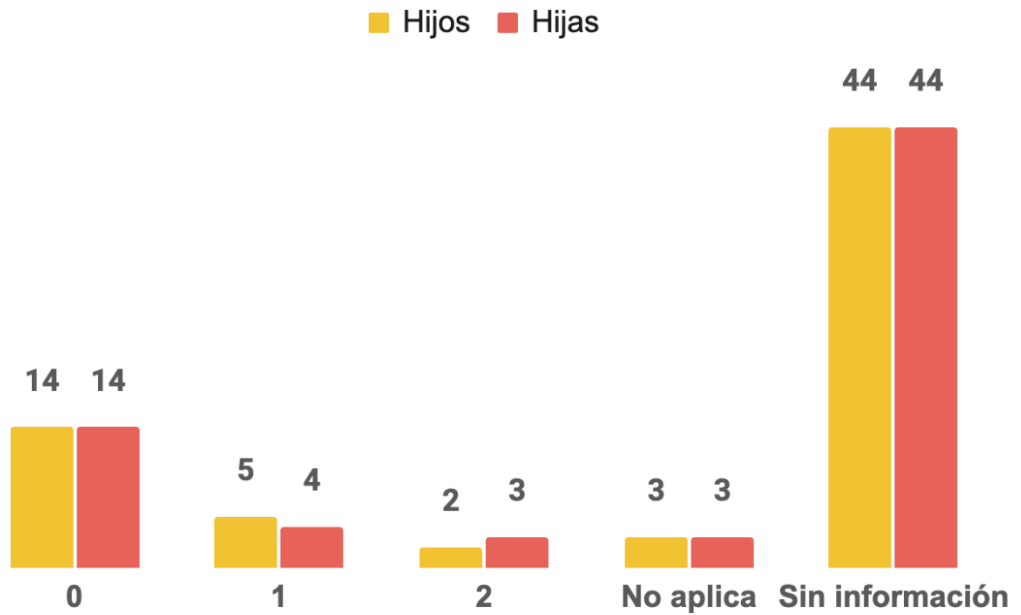

Women who care for life, who are mothers, continue to be attacked by neoliberal feminicidal violence. In November of (68) feminicides (17) were committed against women who were mothers, which corresponds to 25% of feminicides. (6) women were not mothers and did not have sons and daughters, no information (42) records and in (3) does not apply because they were female children.

What does the murder of women mothers imply for a society? These feminicides, in addition to showing the orphanhood of minor girls and boys left behind by femicide, also reveal how the role of power and support for social reproduction played by women mothers loses value and respect in the patriarchal and neoliberal context.

Number of minor children motherless due to femicide November 2024

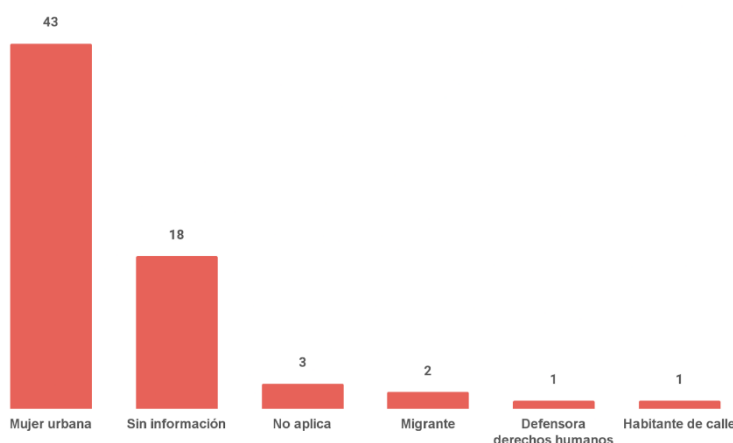

Of the (68) women murdered in November 2024, (14) had 0 sons and (14) had 0 daughters, (5) had 1 son and (4) had 1 daughter, and (2) had 2 sons and (3) had 2 daughters. In (44) records there is no information on the number of sons and in (44) on the number of daughters. In (3) case it does not apply because it is a girl.

19

Children lost their mothers due to neoliberal feminicidal violence in November 2024

Identity of the women who were victims of feminicide November 2024

Social identity

In the category we named social identity, out of (68) records (43) were urban women, (18) had no information, (2) were migrants, (1) was a human rights defender, (1) a street dweller and (3) did not apply.

Ethnic-racial belonging

Regarding the ethnicity and race of the (68) women murdered in November, (40) were of mixed race, (20) had no information and (8) were Afro-descendant, black, Raizal and Palenquero women.<sup>2</sup>

Ethnic-racial background of the female victim

Of the (68) women murdered in November, (40) were mixed race, (7) were black women and (1) was an Afro-descendant woman.

Gender identity

Regarding the gender identity of the (68) women victims of femicide in November, (67) were cisgender women and (1) was a trans woman.

Economic activity of the victims

The economic activity of the (68) women murdered in November was: (8) informal workers, (5) formal workers, (4) drug dealers, (2) informal vendors, (1) unemployed, (1) business owners, (1) reproductive work exclusively in the home, (1) sex workers and (3) not applicable because they were children. The (42) records without information continue to show that several media outlets focus on narrating the spectacle of cruelty to which the women were subjected, without being interested in narrating their lives, environments, jobs, etc.

Feminicidal subject

In November 2024, of the (68) femicides committed, the femicides with the highest number of records were (23) cases perpetrated by known femicide perpetrators and (16) by hired killers. (7) were committed by mafia criminal gangs, (3) by common crime, (3) by guerrillas, with (1) record for each femicide perpetrator: drug trafficking structures, man unknown to the woman, military (army) and neighbor. Of the (12) records, there is no information on the femicide subject.

Number of feminicidal subjects

Feminicidal violence as an expression of power over women's bodies has been committed by men, both individually and in groups. In November 2024 (31) of the (68) feminicides were committed by 1 feminicide subject, (15) were committed by 2 subjects, in (13) there is no information on the number of feminicide subjects and (9) by several subjects.

Weapon used to commit femicide

The relationship with militarization and the level of use of firearms to commit femicides in November continues to show a high tendency. In this month of 2024, of the (68) registered femicides, (46) were committed with firearms, that is 68%. (9) were committed with a sharp weapon, (3) with a fall from height, (2) with a blunt object, (2) with an object to suffocate, (1) with the aggressor's hands and (1) with an object to strangle. Of (4) records, there is no information on the weapon used.

Method of elimination

The method of elimination is related to the weapon used, of the (68) femicides registered this month in (46) femicides the women were shot and in (9) records they were stabbed. With (3) records for each method of elimination: asphyxiated, beaten and thrown from height. In (1) record the woman was strangled, in (1) no information is available and in (2) the method of disposal is unknown.

Violence associated with the feminicide

Violence associated with feminicide refers to the violence that the perpetrator or perpetrators inflict on the woman before committing the feminicide and/or with her corpse. It is important to clarify that the number of associated violence does not coincide with the number of feminicides, since a woman can be the victim of several forms of associated violence.

This month, in (46) of the (68) recorded feminicides women were shot, in (41) women's bodies were publicly exposed, in (10) they were stabbed, with (4) records for each associated violence: beaten, Over Kill (viciousness) and in the presence of minors, with (3) records for each associated violence: asphyxiated, thrown from height and carnal access, in (2) cases they were presented as suicide, with (1) record for each associated violence: fractured, buried and disappeared before the feminicide. For

(1) record there is no information on the associated violence and in (1) the associated violence is unknown.

Location of the crime

In November, of the (68) registered femicides (14) were committed in the victim's home, in (10) there is no information on the place of the facts, with (6) records for each place of the facts: on a street in the victim's neighborhood, commercial premises and urban road, (5) in the victim woman's workplace, (4) in private transportation, with (3) records for each place of the facts: rural road and rural green area, with (2) records for each place of the facts: public space, hotel, public transportation, intermunicipal road and housing of a third party and (1) occurred in a medical center.

The public space is the scene of exposure of lethal violence against women, and through this scenario of death and cruelty, patriarchal power sends messages about its effectiveness and power of domination of social reproduction<sup>3</sup> and thus of the social order.

Place where the body was found

Some of the femicides are committed in places other than where the women's bodies were recovered. Several femicidal subjects have transported the bodies of the murdered women to other places seeking a higher level of impunity or exposure of the femicide. On other occasions, women and girls are found with vital signs and are taken to health centers where they later die.

<sup>3</sup> The concept of social reproduction is taken up again, expressing that social reproduction is all the activities that sustain the lives of human beings as "seres sociales y encarnados, que no solo necesitan comer y dormir, sino también criar a sus hijos, preocuparse por sus familias y sostener sus comunidades, todo eso mientras buscan hacer realidad sus esperanzas para el futuro" which translates to: social and embodied beings, who need not only to eat and sleep, but also to raise their children, care for their families and sustain their communities, all the while seeking to realize their hopes for the future. (Cindia Arruza, 2019, pág. 99)

In November, of the (68) registered feminicides (16) of the women victims were found in a medical center, (10) in the victim's home, (6) in a rural green area, (5) in a street in the victim's neighborhood, with (4) records for each place where the feminicide was committed: commercial premises, victim's workplace and urban road, with (3) records for each place where the feminicide was committed: stream or river and intermunicipal road, with (2) records for each place where the feminicide was committed: hotel, public transportation and rural road, with (1) record for each place where the feminicide was committed: public sports space and private transportation. In (5) records there is no information on the place where the body was found.

ATTEMPTED FEMINICIDES

In November, there were (50) attempted feminicides in 16 of Colombia's 32 departments, that is, in 50% of the national territory, and (1) attempted feminicide of a Colombian migrant woman in Mexico. (51) women survived feminicide violence. There were (11) in Atlántico, (6) in Antioquia, with (5) records per department: Bogotá D.C., Norte de Santander and Santander, with (3) records per department: Bolívar, Risaralda and Valle del Cauca, (2) in Casanare and with (1) record per department: Boyacá, Cauca, Cundinamarca, Guaviare, Huila and Meta.

Lines of interpretation

In the month of November (68) feminicides were committed in Colombia. The departments of Atlántico, Antioquia, Cauca and Santander are the ones with the highest number of feminicides during this month. Taking into account the prevalence rate of feminicides of the 3 departments, 0.76 for Atlántico, 0.23 for Antioquia, 0.85 for Cauca and 0.49 for Santander, we have that the department of Cauca is positioned as the department with the highest recurrence of feminicides in the country this month.

In this month (30) of the 68 feminicides were committed by men in arms in contexts of militarization, i.e. 44% of the records, while (23) of the cases were committed by subjects known to the female victims, i.e. 34% of the records.

During the month of November, four feminicides and two attempted feminicides were committed against working and popular class women in Colombia. These six expressions of neoliberal feminicidal violence occurred in the departments of Cesar, Meta, Valle del Cauca and Atlántico. Three common characteristics marked these attacks: first, they were perpetrated by criminal gangs; second, the violent acts took place in the victims' workplaces; and third, the aggressions were reprisals for the non-payment of extortion to criminal and mafia structures by the owners of the businesses where these women worked.

The murdered women were workers in service areas such as gas stations, fast food stands, street vendors, and payment and money transfer points. This is how the press reports the femicide of Marlen Mozo Jiménez, an employee of the company in charge of national and international currency transfers, Supergiros:

The tragic murder of Mozo Jimenez occurred last Monday, when the young woman was shot in cold blood while attending a point of the company Supergiros, located in the center of Bosconia. According to initial reports, the young woman was attacked without prior warning by hired killers on a motorcycle. This attack was allegedly perpetrated by members of the illegal armed group Autodefensas Gaitanistas de Colombia (AGC), which has been generating alarm in the area due to its constant threats to various local businesses and companies. After Marlen's murder, the assassins left a pamphlet<sup>4</sup>.

Throughout the country, it is widely recognized that narco-mafia structures accumulate capital through illegal businesses that multiply their profits. One of these practices is the “paga diario” or “cobra diario,” a system of loans at high interest rates that does not require credit studies, since the guarantee of payment is the very life of those who receive the money. In addition, these criminal economies are sustained through extortion of small, medium and large traders, as well as through micro-trafficking networks that have expanded significantly in the last 10 years.

In this context, criminal economies are closely linked to feminicides, as they become tools for imposing the rules necessary to maintain the capital accumulation of these structures. These rules, created by men in arms, expose impoverished women to a system where institutions have little or no intervention, due to the historical absence of the state and the poverty in which these women live.

The neoliberal economic system, by favoring access to decent living conditions only for those with greater economic resources, aggravates this situation. This constitutes a crucial challenge for eradicating violence against women and feminicides. The lack of access to services and fundamental rights reinforces a panorama of defenselessness in which working women are particularly vulnerable.

It is therefore vital that institutionality becomes a legitimate and effective regulator throughout Colombia. Institutional instability leaves women and communities unprotected against mafias, while the accumulation of capital subjects the impoverished population to the domination of the criminal “second state” and the neoliberal state. The latter only values the social majorities as low-paid labor to perpetuate the economic accumulation it demands.

At the same time, the neoliberal system protects the interests of a wealthy minority, which, by appropriating the state, promotes policies in its favor. A recent example is the Senate vote that sank the financing law promoted by the national government, which sought to benefit the popular sectors of Colombia. This lack of redistribution of resources and defenselessness against criminal networks with access to weapons and collective decisions exacerbate feminicidal violence in the country.

The criminal and neoliberal economies share parasitic characteristics. Both make life precarious, encourage informality, put people in debt and expose them to violence. According to DANE, for the quarter from August to October 2024, 53.5% of women in Colombia were in the informal sector, which makes them direct victims of criminal gangs. These structures make attempts on their lives for non-payment of extortion.

Alba Lucía Rivera and her son Juan David Posada Rivera were approached by armed men who arrived in a public service vehicle. The assailants fired repeatedly at the victims, leaving them lifeless at the scene. The tragedy has generated a strong backlash on social networks, where people who knew Alba Lucía and her son have expressed their sadness. “I knew Mrs. Alba Luz selling tickets, always in the company of her little son. May Divine Providence receive them in her glory,” wrote one woman on Facebook. “In her car selling coffee some cocaine ballots were found. For this reason, the National Police and the Prosecutor's Office have delegated a criminal investigation and intelligence group so that, with their technical and human capabilities, they can capture those responsible for this unfortunate event”.<sup>5</sup>

The control exercised by criminal gangs over public space generates direct contact between women street vendors and these structures. This contact is manifested through intimidation and profit. In this unequal relationship, the women have to give part of their income from the day's sales to the men in arms and even become a point of sale for narcotics. They are at risk of being detained by the police and at the same time they are constantly threatened by the criminal gangs that own the business, their lives and the little income they generate in the daily search become the property of these structures.

We insist on the actions, proposals and visions of the national government that bet on the existence of a guarantor institutionality that represents the interests of the social majorities is vital, necessary and urgent for the country. It is with the presence of the State, with redistribution of wealth and expansion of democracy that we can counteract the neoliberal feminicidal violence.
